

From: EDWARD E KELLUM
To: microsoft.atr@usdoj.gov.?@inetgw
Date: 1/15/02 7:13pm
Subject: Microsoft Settlement

I concur with the proposed Microsoft Anti-rust settlement with the exception of Microsoft supplying schools with Microsoft software. This would be very unfair to Apple Corp. As I understand it, this part of the agreement has been denied by the judge. If Microsoft gave money only to the schools and the schools could select the hardware software they chose, I think that would be OK.

I am a Mac computer user and I also use Microsoft Office Software, Microsoft Internet Explorer and Outlook Express. I think that Microsoft has supported the Mac computer very well. That is in contrast to Word Perfect word processor which dropped Mac support and to Netscape which was a much poorer browser than Internet Explorer. I used to use Word Perfect and Netscape.

I think it would be detrimental to computer users and the United States if more destructive terms were adopted, such as a break up of the company.

Edward Kellum
615 Vaquero Rd.
Monrovia, CA 91016

ekellum@earthlink.net